

The John F. Kennedy School Berlin, here referred to as JFKS, is pleased to announce the launch of the Stutor, a platform which enables members of the school community to find tutors from within the school.

The platform was designed for the school and is hosted and accessible only by the platform's programmers, both of which are JFKS students, and the JFKS Administration. The platform itself does not share any personal details with other third parties. The platform is only accessible by users through the dedicated community password. Members of the school community are asked to keep this password confidential.

1. Introduction

This consent form is to inform you about the participation of your child as a tutor in JFKS' tutoring initiative and to obtain your permission for including their personal information on the student tutoring website. Stutor is designed to provide academic support by connecting students with tutors within our school community.

The consent is required because the website will display certain personal information about tutors, including their images, full names, email addresses, and grade levels. We comply with all EU regulations, including the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), to ensure your child's data is handled responsibly.

2. About Stutor

- a. Purpose: To facilitate tutoring opportunities by connecting students with qualified peer tutors.
- b. Information Collected:
 - i. Full name
 - ii. Grade level
 - iii. Subjects to tutor in
 - iv. Email address
 - v. Image
 - vi. Short text
- c. Usage: The above information will be displayed publicly on the tutoring website to allow students seeking tutoring to identify and contact their tutors.

3. Parental Consent Statement

By signing this form, you confirm that:

1. You have been informed about the details of this tutoring initiative and how your child's information will be used.
2. You consent to the display of your child's name, grade level, email address, and image (optional) on the tutoring website.
3. You understand that participation in this initiative is voluntary and that students have the option to edit their profiles and the information that is published about them.

4. Data Protection and Privacy

We take your child's privacy seriously. All personal data will be securely stored and only used for the purpose of this tutoring initiative. In compliance with GDPR:

- You have the right to request corrections, removal, or updates to the data at any time.
 - Data will be removed upon request or if your child discontinues participation in the program.
